The University of Minnesota Medical Center Family Medicine Residency is a university-based, community-focused training program, operating in an award-winning clinic and hospital in Minneapolis.

The program leads an independent family medicine service, with patient-centered bedside rounding. Residents benefit from daily didactics by a variety of disciplines.

The curriculum emphasizes chronic and ambulatory care, women’s health, integrated behavioral health, and procedures.

“Training opportunities in women's and global health drew me to the program. Faculty were warm and supportive, and I knew this was a place I would grow professionally.”

“It’s an urban, academic family medicine program that serves a diverse patient population. The faculty and staff are supportive, and the program allows residents to explore their interests within family medicine.”
